Sunday School at 9:45 a. m. G. C. Bowden, supt.

Next Sunday will close the contest between the Reds and Blues at the Baptist Sunday School. The first five weeks period was won by the Reds.

So far the Blues are in the lead for this period. Let both sides get busy and do their best next Sunday. "As you sow, so shall you also reap."

Church attendance is good, but there is still room for others. The subjects to be discussed next Sunday will be of great interest to all and should receive thoughtful and prayerful consideration by all who attend.

Quite a number have expressed themselves as being well pleased with short sermons and prompt closing of service at 12 o'clock. The pastor will greatly appreciate your promptness in being on time at the beginning. Let's make it mutual. Let us be in the church and seated when the service begins promptly on the minute.

FARMER SLAIN BY SON DURING ROW

Samson, Ala., Aug. 26.—Ray Aycock, farmer, living near Coffee Springs, eight miles from Samson, was shot and killed Saturday afternoon by his son, Frank, as a result of a family row. Frank, about 15 years old, was arrested and given a preliminary hearing and was released on $150 bond.

The elder Aycock, according to the testimony, went home and started a row with his family because dinner was not ready. He got particularly mad with his daughter, Pina, and commenced whipping her severely when his son, Frank, interfered.

When the father, declaring he would kill the boy, reached for a shotgun, Frank obtained a gun and emptied a charge of shot into his father's body and he died in a few minutes.

Stephens Loses Contest Before Committee Here

The contest case of Dan J. Stephens against W. H. Watkins, for the office of Sheriff of Coffee County, was heard here Monday and Tuesday by the Democratic Executive Committee, with the result that the Committee rendered a decision for Mr. Watkins.

The hearing consumed practically the entire two days, a major portion of this time being consumed by arguments of the lawyers. Mr. Stephens in his petition to the committee, charged that Mr. Watkins was not qualified in that he had failed to pay Poll Tax during certain years. Some of this time in which it was claimed that he did not pay tax was spent by Mr. Watkins in Dale and Houston counties. Many officers of these two counties were present at the hearing to testify in the matter.

Other grounds on which the contest was instituted was that there were irregularities in certain election boxes. One box in Beat 17, Enterprise, was recounted by the committee, with the result that only a slight change was made from the result as declared by the county wardens that he had made up his mind to get away and added that he would burn up the prison if it took that to do it. After being locked in an especially strong cell where he could be easily watched, following the discovery of the plot, Dickerson is said to have told the warden that he had gotten to the point where he didn't care what happened and thereafter asked the warden to get his gun and kill him.

Warden Davis, in his report to Warden General Feagin, stated that though he was not uneasy about Dickerson getting away from Flat Top, he feared that he might burn the prison building or do other serious damage of some kind and suggested that Dickerson be removed to Kilby prison where he could be more carefully guarded and where the prisoner's alleged incendiary tendencies could do no harm.

Dickerson was transferred to Kilby prison on August 22, and his gun and knife were put in a proof cell under the watchful eyes of the warden and guards.
